When One Religion Isn't Enough

Scholars of religion are familiar with the example of the “JuBu” (Jewish-Buddhist), or the common trope that Haiti is 100% Catholic and 100% Vodouist. Bidwell opens up this spectrum of multiplicity to include religious nones, “Spiritual but not Religious,” folks who identify strongly with one religion but incorporate the practices of another (e.g., a Christian who uses Zen meditation ...

When One Religion Isn't Enough: The Lives of Spiritually ...

In supporting and advocating for spiritually fluid individuals, When One Religion Isn't Enough expresses a certain implicit or explicit disdain for those for whom one religion is enough. Spiritual fluidity is said to involve “being and becoming” while monoreligiosity involves “belief, behavior and belonging” (54).
