The Langevin rate coefficient is the theoretical reaction rate coefficient for an ion-molecule process, calculated classically (i.e., neglecting quantum mechanical effects), assuming that reaction occurs upon every collision. The basic principle is that the ion induces a dipole in the (nonpolar) molecule; the theory does not work well for the interaction of an ion and a polar molecule.

This is a solvency ratio, which indicates a firm's ability to pay its long-term debts. The lower the positive ratio is, the more solvent the business. The debt to equity ratio also provides information on the capital structure of a business, the extent to which a firm's capital is financed through debt. This ratio is relevant for all industries.
