The Origins Of Dispensationalism The

The Origins of Dispensationalism Most people assume that Dispensationalism started with J N Darby, one of the originators of the Brethren movement. Certainly Darby popularised this doctrine and, with the spread of Scofield's reference Bible, the teaching went world wide. However, Darby was not the first to develop these ideas.

Larry Crutchfield focuses on 2 individuals, John Nelson Darby and C.I. Scofield, and their influence on modern Dispensationalism. I found the information and background on J.N. Darby to be quite useful, because IMO he is one of the most underappreciated theologians in church history (which I think was in large part due to him being a 'separatist').

One of the primary reasons why there is such sizable ignorance about the historical origins of Dispensationalism is due to the tendency of Christians to conflate Chiliasm (“historic Premillennialism”) with Dispensational Premillennialism. There are several explicit examples of this error that can be recounted.

An Overview of Dispensationalism’s Historical Origins

Historic Premillennialism (e.g. in George Eldon Ladd) rejects pre-tribulationalism, dispensationalism's radical tenets, and its uniquely Jewish view of the 1000 year millennium. Historic premillennialism may be traced back to some of the early church fathers where it was sometimes termed "chiliasm." See main article Premillennialism.
