Exploring Big Historical Data: The Historian's Macroscopic

Exploring Big Historical Data should be the go-to resource for undergraduate and graduate students confronted by a vast corpus of data, and researchers encountering these methods for the first time. It will also offer a helping hand to the interested individual seeking to make sense of genealogical data or digitized newspapers, and even the local historical society who are trying to see the value in digitizing their holdings.

Exploring Big Historical Data: The Historian's Macroscopic ...

Until Exploring Big Historical Data, historians had no such bridge between the Web 1.0 era of Cohen and Rosenzweig and the data-centric view of today. Exploring Big Historical Data is perhaps the first printed book, targeted specifically at historians, to fill this niche in the new wave of digital history, and will play an important part in the digital history classrooms of the next decade, including my own.

Exploring Big Historical Data: The Historian's Macroscope ...

The Digital Humanities have arrived at a moment when digital Big Data is becoming more readily available, opening exciting new avenues of inquiry but also new challenges. This pioneering book describes and demonstrates the ways these data can be explored to construct cultural heritage knowledge, for research and in teaching and learning.

Exploring Big Historical Data - World Scientific

In Exploring Big Historical Data, we peel back the layers of a particular approach to big data using topic modeling and network analysis. These techniques, which are growing in popularity in the humanities, need to be examined critically as they have been ported from divergent disciplines and domains.

Exploring Big Historical Data. Posted by admin on Feb 10, 2016 in Blog | 0 comments. I've really enjoyed reading my copy of Exploring Big Historical Data: The Historian's Macroscope (Macroscope for short here) by Shawn Graham , Ian Milligan and Scott Weingart. As the authors suggest the book will be ideal for students or researchers from humanities asking if they can use big data ideas in their work.
