SRD:Weapons - D&D Wiki

Weapon Proficiencies deviate from basic 3.5 rules. Instead of Simple, Martial and Exotic, weapons are grouped together by similarity. Some very unusual weapons (mainly exotic weapons) do not belong to any weapon group and therefore are a weapon group of their own. Any feat that requires a specific weapon to apply the feat's benefit to (such as Improved Critical, Weapon Focus, or Weapon Specialization) can instead be applied to a weapon group.

A weapon shift spell allows you to temporarily transform any one melee weapon into a different melee weapon. Improvised weapons and double weapons cannot be targeted or be the result of this spell.
