Modelling Transport
Transport modelling is

undertaken to help
transport decision
makers - and related
decision makers, e.g.
land-use planners,
industrial investors,
public health officers -
to better understand
the current, the future and sometimes the
past transport systems,
and to make better
decisions about what to do.

Transport modelling - Transport for West Midlands

A transport model is a mathematical representation of all or part of a transport system. It is used to evaluate existing conditions and to
project future effects
