1. Introduction

PwC Ca IFRS 9 Impairment

The impairment rules of IFRS 9 introduce a new, forward looking, expected credit loss ('ECL') impairment model which will generally result in earlier recognition of losses compared to IAS 39. These changes are likely to have a significant impact on entities that have significant financial assets, in particular financial institutions.

Paragraph 5.5.20 of IFRS 9 contains an exception for certain types of financial instruments to measure expected credit losses over the period that the entity is exposed to credit risk, even if that period extends beyond the contractual period. The exception applies to some financial instruments that include both a loan and an undrawn commitment.

International Financial Reporting Standard 9 (IFRS 9) responds to criticisms that International Accounting Standard 39 (IAS 39) is too complex, is inconsistent with the way entities manage their businesses and risks, and defers the recognition of credit losses on loans and receivables until too late in the credit cycle.

IFRS 9: Financial Instruments | PwC Canada

The IFRS 9 project was originally part of the IASB's and FASB's joint convergence initiative. The Boards stopped working on the project except for impairment of loans and receivables because they were unable to reach agreement on certain key matters, and other projects took priority.
