Prestressed Concrete Vs Reinforced Cement Concrete ...

Prestressed concrete is a form of concrete used in construction. It is substantially "prestressed" during production, in a manner that strengthens it against tensile forces which will exist when in service.-5 This compression is produced by the tensioning of high-strength "tendons" located within or adjacent to the concrete and is done to improve the performance of the concrete in service. Tendons may consist of single wires, multi-wire strands or threaded bars that are most commonly made ...

Difference Between RCC and Prestressed Concrete ...

Prestressing applies an initial compressive axial force to the concrete which greatly reduces or eliminates the internal tensile stresses. It does this by a tensile stress to steel cable running through the concrete. The steel cable is then anchored
and a compressive force is transferred to the concrete by bond forces as shown in figure.
