Stephen King's harrowing short The Raft was adapted into a segment of Creepshow 2, but it's time for a feature-length version of the story. Read by most King fans as part of his Skeleton Crew anthology, The Raft focuses on four college friends who head out to a remote lake for some partially clothed fun. It's an odd decision, since it's fall and the water is freezing, but the group soon has much more to worry about when a creature resembling an oil slick arrives to make them a meal.

Why Stephen King's The Raft Needs a Movie Adaptation

The Raft The novel begins with four college students named Randy, Deke, Rachel, and LaVerne decide to swim to a wooden raft on a remote Pennsylvania lake to celebrate the end of summer. While swimming out to a raft in the middle of lake, Randy notices a mysterious oil slick-like blob floating on the surface that appears to go after the girls as they reach the raft.
