History . The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, adopted by all United Nations Member States in 2015, provides a shared blueprint for peace and prosperity for people and the planet, now and into the future. At its heart are the 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), which are an urgent call for action by all countries - developed and developing - in a global partnership.

THE 17 GOALS | Sustainable Development

Set out in the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, the SDGs form an ambitious plan to promote sustainable development for the benefit of all people and the planet. The World Bank's expertise in development data and its large repository of development indicators play an important role in keeping track of progress against the goals.
