The Sling And Stone On

"The Sling and the Stone: On War in the 21st Century" by Thomas Hammes is an analysis of how the U.S. military has not successfully met the challenge of fourth-generation warfare. Hammes argues for a network-based rather than a hierarchical-based approach to modern warfare.

The Sling and the Stone: On War in the 21st Century by Thomas X. Hammes is a deeply thoughtful but ultimately flawed book. Unfortunately Hammes buys into the dogma of Fourth Generation Warfare (4GW).

According to this bizarre theory, First Generation Warfare started after the Treaty of Westphalia (1648) and involved line and column tactics.

So we can infer that the spell range of a thrown Magic Stone equals the maximum range of a normal thrown stone. If we extend this to using the Magic Stone as ammunition for a sling, it would seem reasonable to apply the same principle, and say that the sling stone's maximum range of 120 feet is the spell range of a Magic Stone thrown from a ...

What is the range on a Magic Stone when hurled from a sling?

A sling is a projectile weapon typically used to throw a blunt projectile such as a stone, clay, or lead "sling-bullet". It is also known as the shepherd's sling. Someone who specialises in using slings is called a slinger. A sling has a small cradle or pouch in the middle of two lengths of cord. The sling stone is placed in the pouch. The middle finger or thumb is placed through a loop on the end of one cord, and a tab at the end of the other cord is placed between the thumb and forefinger.
