HOUSING AND URBANISATION BY CHARLES CORREA PDF

Charles Mark Correa (1 September 1930 - 16

June 2015) was an Indian architect, urban planner and activist. Credited for the creation of modern architecture in post-Independent India, he was celebrated for his sensitivity to the needs of the urban poor and for his use of traditional methods and materials.

Charles Correa (Author of Housing and Urbanisation)

Charles Correa's interest in urbanism and especially the city of Mumbai continued throughout his career in different ways. He was involved in setting up the Urban Design Research Institute in Bombay as a space that till date continues its research and activism on architecture and urbanism in Bombay.

The Incremental Housing project (1983-86) in New Bombay that followed was a tactical response to affordable housing development and he experimented with low-rise developments yielding higher densities. In the 'new city', Correa proposed seven detached houses that varied between 45 and 70 square metres, assembled around a courtyard.
