Posted on May 22, 2009 by Todd Shaffer. As Wayne wraps up his 5 year long series of lectures going through his excellent Systematic Theology, he looks at the varying views of the millennium, final judgment, hell, and the new heavens and new earth. Wayne spends little time on the Post-millennial view because it's based on very few and very weak proof-texts.

Response to Grudem, Systematic Theology, Ch. 32. Posted on February 11, 2010 by austinmrogers. Response to Wayne Grudem, Systematic Theology, "Election and Reprobation". Chapter 32 of Wayne Grudem's Systematic Theology appears in the very middle of his expansive textbook. Having read his first eight chapters (on the doctrine of the Word of God), I generally agree with Grudem's views on the infallibility of the scriptures.

Tongues, Healing & Prophecy: Grudem Sys Theo. Wayne Grudem tackles the gamut of spiritual giftedness, taking specific classes to focus on the gift of tongues, healing, and prophecy (sometimes inaccurately called a word of knowledge). Wayne does a gracious job of providing a balance of perspectives. He is not a cessationist, but he does have some helpful controlling ideas that should be true of these gifts and their use.

Systematic theology is a science where theologians study the Bible on a particular subject to see what does the Bible say about this topic. There are many books on systematic theology, with many different theological views, positions, and traditions. Many of these books hold the same name, but few are as popular today as Grudem's . The book that I've been using as a guide in my posts on systematic theology, Wayne Grudem's Systematic Theology (Grand Rapids, Michigan: Zondervan, 1994), takes the position that all final judgment will take place there. He presents evidence that both unbelievers and believers will be judged in it, unbelievers to receive punishment and believers to receive rewards; that angels will be judged in it; and that we will help in the work of judgment.

Doctrine of Justification: Wayne Grudem Systematic Theology. Justification is an instantaneous legal act of God in which he (1) thinks of our sins as forgiven and Christ's righteousness as belonging to us, and (2) declares us to be righteous in his sight. Wayne Grudem covers the doctrine of Justification, showing how it is a very practical doctrine, and also tackles some common misunderstandings.

Doctrine of Justification: Wayne Grudem Systematic Theology

Systematic Theology is remarkable for its extraordinary juxtapositions. It is penetrating but not confusing; forthright and unequivocal but not reckless or overstated; readable and clear but not superficial; biblically grounded, even biblically saturated, but not textually careless or glib; devout and reverent but not uncritical or naïve; practical but not trendy or sentimental; comprehensive but not majoring on minors; a book for the church but not parochial or sectarian.

For the past ten months my family and I have been reading from Wayne Grudem’s Systematic Theology (Grand Rapids, Michigan: Zondervan, 1994) in our after-breakfast Bible reading. Currently we’re reading what he says about the doctrine of salvation. We’ve already read what he says about election, the Gospel call, conversion, regeneration ...
